CHECKLIST

Applying the 60-30-10 Rule

- [ ] List the largest surfaces and objects in the room and note their current colours.
- [ ] Decide whether walls, flooring or the largest piece of furniture will carry the dominant sixty percent.
- [ ] Choose a secondary colour that contrasts without clashing, testing it in the room's light.
- [ ] Step back from the doorway and check the balance, adjusting quantities if one colour overwhelms.
- [ ] Mix textures and finishes within your colour scheme to add dimension.
- [ ] Leave paint samples and fabric swatches in place for a few days, checking them in different lights.
- [ ] In small rooms, consider pushing the dominant colour higher than sixty percent for a more unified feel.
